ABSTRACT

This publication is a guide to the holdings and locations of 129 newspaper and periodical titles relating to Hispanic American history and culture which were received before August 1979 at the library of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin and at the libraries of the University of Wisconsin at Madison. It includes older titles which have ceased publication as well as titles still being published. The scope of the guide is broad, including literary, political, and historical journals, as well as newspapers and feature magazines of the Hispanic American community. An introduction to the guide, presented in English and in Spanish, recounts the history of the collections. A detailed explanation of the guide's organization and entry format is also presented. Accompanying the union list are: a list of sources for the purchase of microfilm copies of the publications listed; a list of libraries whose holdings are included in the guide; an alphabetical list of the newspaper and periodical titles covered by the guide; and geographic, name, subject, and chronological indexes to the listings. INTRODUCTION

This is a guide to the holdings and locations of over 100 periodical and newspaper titles relating to Hispanic Americans in the United States which were received before August, 1979, in the Library of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin and the libraries of the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The scope of the guide is broad, including literary, political, and historical journals as well as general newspapers and feature magazines of the Hispanic American community. It includes older titles which have long ceased publication as well as those still being published.

This guide, the first of its kind published for the Madison campus, spans many years of Hispanic American thought and action, from the early nineteenth century to the increase in Hispanic American consciousness and heightened ethnic pride of the 1960's. It was prepared in order to assist faculty, students, and researchers, both local and elsewhere, who found it difficult to use Madison's rich, but widely dispersed resources. It is, we believe, a guide to one of the strongest Hispanic American collections in the Midwest, and a true regional resource. Most of the titles listed are available on interlibrary loan through libraries outside the Madison area.

The nature and scope of Hispanic settlement in Wisconsin has changed greatly since the early twentieth century. Indeed, there is little historical evidence of permanent residence by Hispanics prior to 1900. Specific foreign and domestic events of the early twentieth century, such as the Mexican Revolution and labor disputes, led to an influx of Hispanic immigrants into Wisconsin, primarily from Mexico. Many of these people were refugees who formed a small nucleus of permanent Hispanic residents, principally in Milwaukee. Following World War II, the origin of Hispanic immigrants broadened to include people from Puerto Rico and Central and South America along with those from Mexico and the southwestern United States. Today, Wisconsin's Hispanic population is a dynamic and important part of the State's social fabric, with special abilities and needs.

The interest of the State of Wisconsin in Hispanics can be measured by the type and quantity of the publications it has issued concerning this group. In the 1950's and early 1960's Wisconsin issued a series of reports on the "migrant problem," dealing with health, safety, wages, living conditions, and other issues of concern to migrants and their employers. As the Hispanic population grew and the number of permanent residents increased, the State began publishing documents on a broader range of concerns, as in the 1976 Report on State Services to the Hispanic Population of Wisconsin.

The involvement of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin with Hispanics has been patchy and uneven. Since the Society's library holdings embrace the whole of North America north of the Rio Grande, a great deal of material relating to Mexico and Hispanic Americans generally has found its way into the general collections. But in 1976 the Society received criticism from the Governor's Council for Spanish Speaking People for its lack of systematic activity on behalf of the Hispanic community, and in fact the Society has published very little relating to Hispanics. The first such materials are in the Wisconsin Historical Collections, a multivolume documentary series published between 1854 and 1931; the documents relate to the role of Spain in the Upper Mississippi Valley during the eighteenth century. The next publication relating to Hispanics was John P. Finnegan's "Preparedness in Wisconsin: The National Guard and the Mexican Border Incident" which appeared in the Wisconsin Magazine of History in 1964. In 1967 the Magazine published another article on a related theme, Harvey Levenstein's "Samuel Gompers and the Mexican Labor Movement." In all three cases the publications are more legitimately concerned with U.S. relations with Spain and Mexico than with Hispanics per se. With the publication of this union list, and of a special issue of Badger History on Hispanics in Wisconsin and a bibliography of books and articles on the same subject, the Society will have built a valuable foundation for further research and writing.

In addition to the service it provides to the citizens of Wisconsin and researchers outside the state, the Library of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin serves as the U.S. and Canadian history library for the University of Wisconsin-Madison. The Library is the focal point for Hispanic American studies on the Madison campus, and it holds a large number of books, pamphlets, and broadsides which complement the periodicals and newspapers described in this booklet. The collection dates from the early nineteenth century, though its greatest strength is in the post-World War II period, especially in the 1960's and 1970's. Historical and geographical factors have influenced the development of this portion of the Library's collection, but the possibility of enlarging its retrospective holdings could materially improve its coverage of the nineteenth century.

The arrangement of the union list is alphabetical. An explanation of the standard entry format follows:

York: The H. W. Wilson Company); and America: History and Life (Santa Barbara, California: American Bibliographical Center, Clio Press). Following the main alphabetical listing (which contains all title variants) are a number of indexes. The indexes are a geographical index (alphabetically by state and then by city); name index (all editors and publishing organizations); subject index; and a chronological index (keyed to campus holdings only).

The Madison librarians who provided information about their holdings for this edition were: William Bunce (Kohler Art Library), Dorothy Kanter (Center for Health Sciences Library), William Ebbott (Law School), Thurston Davini (School of Social Work), Suzanne Hodgman and Erwin Welsch (Memorial Library), Gretchen Lagana (Rare Books, Memorial Library), Ann Vandenburgh (Microforms, Memorial Library), Jean Rideout (Library School), Sue Genrer (Criminal Justice Center), Barbara Strauss (Music Library), and Janice Beaudin (College Library).

Sanford Berman, Head Cataloger of the Hennepin County Library in Edina, Minnesota, graciously reviewed the subject index and generated the bilingual Alternative Cataloging in Publication data. Georgia Portuondo, Spanish-Portuguese Cataloger at the University of Wisconsin-Madison Memorial Library, provided the translations into Spanish and reviewed the manuscript for obvious errors. Cristóbal Berry Cabán, a graduate student at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and a former editor of La Guardia, helped to identify titles that might otherwise have been missed.

Since we plan to update this list periodically, we would appreciate comments or suggestions for additional information or titles. Please submit them to James P. Danky, Newspapers and Periodicals Librarian, State Historical Society of Wisconsin, 816 State Street, Madison, Wisconsin 53706, phone (608) 262-9584.

INTRODUCCIÓN

El presente trabajo es una guía del acervo bibliográfico y localización de más de cien periódicos y diarios concernientes a los hispanoamericanos en los Estados Unidos de América, que se han recibido antes de agosto de 1979 en la Biblioteca de la Sociedad Histórica de Wisconsin y en las de la Universidad de dicho estado en la ciudad de Madison.

El alcance de esta obra es vasto: incluye material literario, político e histórico, periódicos en general y revistas especializados de la comunidad hispana. Se han recopliado tanto las publicaciones periódicas recientes, como las antiguas que han cesado de publicarse.

Esta compilación, la primera de su clase, que se publica en el reciento de la Univevsidad de Madison, abarca muchos años del pensamiento y acción hispanoamericanos, período que señala, desde los comienzos del siglo XIX, un avance en la toma de conciencia y valorización del orgullo de ser hispano en los años 60. Ha sido hecha con el deseo de ayudar a los miembros de la facultad, estudiantes e investigadores, aquí y en toda otra parte, para quienes antes ha sido difícil usar las abundantes pero dispersas fuentes de Madison. Es, creemos, una quía para uso de una de las más valiosas colecciones hispanoamericanas en el medioeste y un auténtico recurso regional. Muchas de las entradas, que no se cuentan en nuestras existencias están, sin embargo, disponibles por medio de préstamo entre bibliotecas fuera del perímetro de Madison.

La naturaleza y alcance del asiento hispano en Wisconsin, ha cambiado, notablemente desde los comienzos del siglo XX. En realidad, sólo contamos con algunos datos históricos sobre residentes permanentemente asentados en el área antes de 1900. Acontecimientos en el exterior y en el país, en los primeros años del siglo XX - como la revolución mexicana y las luchas laborales- trajeron un incremento de inmigrantes hispanoamericanos en Wisconsin, principalmente de México. Muchos de estos individous fueron refugiados, quienes formaron pequeños núcleos principalmente en Milwaukee. Después de la Segunda Guerra Mundial, vinieron de otros lugares, como Puerto Rico, América Central y del Sur, así como de México y sudoeste de los Estados Unidos. Hoy por hoy, la población de habla española de Wisconsin es una parte importante y dinámica de la estructura social del estado, con talentos y específicas necesidades.

El interés del estado de Wisconsin en los hispanos, puede calcularse por el tipo y cantidad de publicaciones que se hacen en provecho de este grupo.

En los años 50, y al principo de los 60, el estado de Wisconsin editó una serie de informes sobre dificultades de los inmigrantes: salubridad, seguridad social, salarios, condiciones de vida y empleadores.

Al crecer la población hispana y con ello el número de los residentes, el estado empezó legislar más ampliamente sobre este aspecto, como en 1976 fue el Infome sobre los servicios estatales a la población hispana de Wisconsin.

El compromiso de la Sociedad Histórica de Wisconsin con los hispanos hasido de rectificación y sin igual. No obstante, puesto que los fondos de la Sociedad cubren geográficamente desde el Río Grande hacia el norte, una gran cantidad de material sobre México y los hispanamericanos en general, se ha perdido para esta colección. Asimismo en 1976, el Consejo Gubernamental de Wisconsin desaprobó la actuación de la Sociedad para las personas de habla española por su falta de actividad sistemática a favor de la comunidad hispana; y debido a ello, ésta ha publicado desde entonces muy poco en relación con los hispanoamericanos. El primer material de esta clase se encuentra en la Colección Histórica de Wisconsin, obra monumental seriada de documentos publicados entre 1854 y 1931, que dan a conocer la hegemonía de España en la parte norte del valle del Misisipí en el siglo XVIII. La siguiente publicación de esta temática fue la de John P. Finnegan "El armamentismo en Wisconsin: la guardia nacional y el incidente de la frontera Mexicana", así publicado en Revisita Histórica de Wisconsin en 1964. En 1967, la Revista dió a conocer otro artículo de Harvey Levenstein sobre el mencionado tema: "Samuel Compers y la lucha del movimiento laboral mexicano". En todos estos tres casos, las publicaciones están más legítimamente interesadas en las relaciones de Estados Unidos con España y México que en los hispanoamericanos mismos. Con la difusión de este catálogo colectivo, de una edición especial de la Historia del Tejón sobre los hispanos en Wisconsin, de una bibligrafía de monografías y artículos sobre este asunto, la sociedad edificó, de esta manera, valiosos cimientos para futuras investigaciones y escritos.

Además de los servicios que presta a los residentes de Wisconsin y a los investigadores fuera de este estado, la Biblioteca de la Sociedad Histórica de Wisconsin sirve como librería de investigación a los Estados Unidos y al Canadá, así como a la Universidad de Wisconsin en Madison. La biblioteca constituye el centro de interés para estudios iberoamericanos en el ámbito de la Universidad en Madison, por ser poseedora de una gran cantidad de libros, panfletos y papeles volantes que complementan las publicaciones periódicas y diarios descritos en este librete.

La colección data desde los principios del siglo XIX, pero su ímpetu bibliográfico es, sin embargo, en la posguerra de la

Segunda Guerra Mundial, especialmente en los años 60 y 70; pero hemos de considerar la posibilidad de amplair, retrospectivamente, la colección del siglo XIX.

El arreglo de este catálogo colectivo es en orden alfabético. A continuación ofrecemos un ejemplo de entrada:
